THE FIRST DAY OF THE YEAR

Monday was an eventful day in the history of Richmond. No brass band passed down Macdonald avenue and no one was killed and yet it was an eventful day that saw the conclusion of two projects that have been before the citizens of Richmond for some time.

An agreement was finally reached between the E.H.S. Landing and Dock company and the City of Richmond for adequate streets and approaches to the inner harbor and the new municipal wharf, which is now under construction there.

Only this will be able to tell what a great adventure this is in the building up of the inner harbor and the attracting of new industries. It is a step in the proper direction. The only regret that comes with it is that it took five years to bring about the agreement, an agreement which was most vital not only to the city of Richmond, but to all other property holders in that section.

We don't predict that a new industry will move in tomorrow, or the next day, or month for that matter, but it is an added inducement to those who may wish to locate in that section. A consistent program followed out by the Chamber of Commerce and similar organizations to go after basic things of this nature and force about high pressure salesmanship in selling the city, will do much. The scouts sent out for industries are going to look at our housing conditions and other facilities that we have to offer them.

Another progressive move was that of settling the park question of the West Side. We could shout with joy, for not only was an out found for a most perplexing problem but a great deal of money was saved for the city taxpayers. A site which should be agreeable to all concerned has been obtained for nothing. Although the entire $7,200 voted for the establishment of a park in the West Side may not be required to improve the two acre site in front of the Washington school, it will insure an adequate immediate development of the park.

This is the last of eight sites that have been obtained by the Park and Playground commission and if it were to be the end of their work they would have done a great errand for the city. Their work is not to end with the mere acquisition of the sites however, but a program of development of the site is now to be pushed to a successful conclusion.

Monday as a matter of fact was really the first business day of the year and if the two things mentioned above can be taken as a criterion for the rest of the year, it is going to be "SOME" YEAR.

JACK PICKFORD AND WIFE PART

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Marilynn Miller and Jack Pickford have come to the parting of the ways. Mrs. Caro Miller, the dancer's mother, declared here today.

"I shouldn't wonder if my daughter and Jack Pickford would make their separation permanent," said Mrs. Miller.

"While I have heard of no divorce action, such an event would not surprise me, for I have noticed a growing coolness between them for some time—especially on the part of Jack."

Marilynn is playing in "Sunny", the new Dillingham production, in New York, while her husband is in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Miller arrived here, ill, and was taken immediately to a hotel.

"Marilynn never discusses her personal affairs with me," continued Mrs. Miller, "so naturally I don't know what her plans are regarding the reported divorce action."

Mrs. Miller, an attending physician declared, is threatened with pneumonia.

Marilynn was married to Pickford on July 31, 1922, two years after her first husband, Frank Carter, was killed in an automobile accident.

Pickford's first wife, Olive Thomas, a motion picture actress, died in Paris of self-administered poison soon after she and Jack were divorced.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Pearce of Elko, Nevada, were entertained by relatives here over New Year's day. They were the guests of Mr. Pearce's family which includes his mother, Mrs. A. B. Pearce and two sisters, Mrs. E. G. Harlow and Mrs. H. W. Garrard.

Mrs. Rosa Rosier, 554 Twenty-first street, entertained the Misses Marjorie and Burling Weaver of Salt Lake City over the holidays. Mrs. Rosier is the aunt of the two girls.

Heir to $400,000 Estate

Miss Anita Hodgkin, Dean of the School for Christian Service at Berkeley, Cal., has adopted the 10-month-old illegitimate son of Miss L. B. Beckwith, who died at the age of 28. She left an estate of $400,000. The baby has been christened Norman Morrison Hodgkin. Harry E. Deen, and Charles E. Hodgkin, who are the legal guardians of the estate, are co-guardians of the child. During the ceremony, Miss Hodgkin was decorated with the Order of the Queen of Rumania, and the Rumanian government. She is shown wearing these decorations.

EVELYN NESBIT TAKES POISON AFTER PARTY

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will live.

That was the word that came late today from the hospital where the divorced wife of Harry K. Thaw was taken early this morning after swallowing eight ounces of a powerful disinfectant.

Whether the poison was taken through a deliberate attempt to end her life or whether she drank it because of a craving for alcohol had not been determined tonight.

For several hours after she drank the poison Miss Thaw was unconscious but late today she regained consciousness enough to whisper:

"I want a drink of beer."

Beer was provided from the hospital supplies. The physician said it would be good for her; that the alcohol in it would be an antidote for the poison. She appeared to rest more easily after drinking. Her heart action was stimulated with strychnine.

WINE AND BEER MADE IN HOME HELD LEGAL IN NEW DECISION

Attorney General Sargent States That Brew However Must Not "Be Intoxicating"

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Home made wine with an alcoholic content, greater than one per cent may be used in the home "prohibition is not become intoxicating in fact." That theory of the prohibition law given by Representative Hill of Maryland, who defied prohibition enforcement authorities to arrest him for making high voltage wine was upheld today by Attorney General Sargent.

In acquiescing in a decision of the United States District Court, the attorney general formally announced that a person who was accused of making fruit juices may legally possess the "product in his home for his own use, even though it has fermented beyond the alcoholic content allowed by the prohibition law, "providing it has not become intoxicating in fact."

The ruling breaks down the long standing home possession of "home-made wines, for the term "intoxicating in fact" has never been legally defined, it is pointed out.

The test case waged some time ago by Congressman John Philip Hill of Maryland, in which he was acquitted after being arrested for making hard cider and passing it around to friends at a party he gave, is a parallel to the case on which the Department of Justice ruled yesterday. A farmer named Isner had two barrels of wine in his cellar, and a criminal charge had been filed against him, charging possession of intoxicating liquor in violation of the prohibition act. It was the federal court's acquittal of Isner that won the acquiescence of the attorney general.

SECOND PAROLE IS REVOKED BY THE GOVERNOR

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Jan. 5.—Availing himself a second time of his right to revoke a parole granted by the State Board of Prison directors Governor Richardson has rescinded the order which released Fred Mayen.

Los Angeles confidence operator from San Quentin prison in November 1924. And the convict is back in the penitentiary to become known today.

Possibility that revoking of Mayen's parole may have some bearing on the case of E. A. "Big Hutch" Hutchings whose parole was recently recalled by the governor and who is now in New York fighting extradition was frankly discussed in political circles at the capital today.

Mayen like Hutchings was sent to San Quentin for confidence game operations in Los Angeles. He was received at the prison in 1921 and given a term of seven and a half years for grand larceny. He was convicted of obtaining $300,000 in Los Angeles bunco activities.

James T. Murray was picked up by the police at Albany yesterday and is in the city jail on a charge of passing a worthless check.

Rev. H. I. Oberholtzer, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, who has been spending ten days at St. Helena Sanitarium, is reported to be getting along quite well.

GEYSER CANYON, CALIFORNIA, BEING HARNESSSED BY STEAM WALLS WHICH PRODUCE 150 LBS. PRESSURE

Geysir Canyon, located near Healdsburg, Sonoma County, Calif., is one of the world's greatest wonders. It is now being harnessed to do man's bidding by the digging of wells from 2,000 to 5,000 feet deep. The pressure of these wells runs as high as 150 pounds of steam to the square inch. The photograph which was taken recently shows one of the geysers harnessed and another being brought in.

"BIG HUTCH IS" TO BE RETURNED TO CALIFORNIA

(By Universal Service)
ALBANY (N. Y.), Jan. 5.—Governor Smith, late today, granted the request of Governor Richardson of California, for the extradition of Everett A. Hutchings, promoter.

Hutchings was paroled last August after he had served three and one-half years of a seven and one-half years' sentence. Governor Richardson revoked the parole last November, claiming it had been obtained through fraud.

Counsel for Hutchings, who is now employed in New York City, announced he would apply for a writ of habeas corpus and would fight the extradition in the courts. He said he would carry the fight to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, to prevent Hutchings returning to California.

In opposing the application before Governor Smith, counsel for Hutchings said he was being made the "goat" in a political war between Governor Richardson and District Attorney Keyes of Los Angeles.

Five Firemen are Injured In Blaze In Oakland Store

OAKLAND, Jan. 5.—Five firemen were slightly injured and more than $20,000 damage resulted in a fire, which broke out in the animal store of H. C. Taylor at 118 Eleventh street. The fire started in the basement at the rear of the store and the thick smoke made it hard to fight and caused the death of nearly 200 birds, puppies and other pets.

Those injured were: Captain J. K. Murray, 3018 West street, cut on ear; Battalion Chief Monte Carroll, 402 Grand avenue, cut on head and bruised when caught by falling timbers; John Weimers, 542 Twenty-fifth street, burned on neck; C. J. Jones, 2821 Twenty-third avenue, bruised on face; and W. E. Bellars, 758 Sixteenth street cut by glass.

A restaurant adjoining the bird store was slightly damaged by smoke and water. Many of the pets killed in the fire were being cared for at the store for the owners. The loss on these will be heavy for there were many valuable pets among them.

Street car traffic was tied-up for more than an hour and San Francisco Key Route trains were delayed during the rush hour, between 6 and 7:30 o'clock.

S. P. NOW ASKS FARE INCREASE

Faced by what they declare to be an operating loss of $900,000, the Southern Pacific company is preparing application for increases in ferry rates to be filed with the Railroad commission. This is in accordance with the temporary rates increase granted the Key System.

The reason given for the requested increase is the same as that of their competitor, the Key System, that the rates awarded by the arbitration board to the motormen and conductors will cause a big deficit.

If the rates that are asked will be given, the Southern Pacific will charge the same amount as the Key System does, that is: 21 cents for transbay fares, $5.20 for commutation books and seven cents on Eastbay street car lines.

BUILDING PERMITS

NO GOLDEN TREES IN WALL ST.

There is no mystic tree of success, and the young man must work just as hard now to get to the top of the ladder as did the youngster of previous generations, according to Cameron Beck, who for several years has been personnel director of the New York Stock Exchange. In a recent address to members of a high school division in Boston, Mr. Beck took exception to the idea that it is easy to make a fortune on Wall Street without work.

Mr. Beck told of a boy that came to ask for a job, explaining that after a few questions he found that the youngster had not made the most of his opportunities in his previous position. "I told him: 'Go back to your boss, throw your arms around his neck and kiss him, and thank him for being so patient with you. You would not work for me a week.'"

"Many boys come to New York thinking there is a mystic tree that he can get under and go to sleep while someone shakes it for him. I have never found that tree.

"I am glad to have a boy ask me: 'what is the opportunity?'"

"At the stock exchange we are more concerned about the moral welfare of the young men on our payroll than many of their parents are.

"We refuse to allow boys to continue in voluntary ignorance. Today, seventy-one per cent of our boys under twenty years of age are enrolled in evening schools of college or university rank.

"I am not arguing about the value of an education; I know the facts.

"Have you a job or have you a calling? If all that you are getting comes in the pay envelope, send in your resignation.

"We are all putting into our day's work what we really are, whether we are machinists or are preachers.

"Let George do it," is running up and down the country. I would like to put up the words that John Smith painted on the side of his ship so that those who sail may read: 'Those who eat must work.'

SILVER-GOLD MONEY

It is reported that the Treasury Department has now under consideration the coinage of a new dollar to be composed of an alloy of silver and gold in such proportions that the coin would wear well, possess full intrinsic value and have the added advantage of a reduction in weight and size when compared to the ordinary silver dollar. The alloy, it is stated would also give a distinctive color so that it would be readily recognized.

There would seem to be a real demand for such a coin, and there can be little question of its popularity, particularly with those interested in the mining of precious metals.—The Detonator.

Barney Oldfield as we knew him, was a chance taker, who suddenly saw the uselessness of it and quit the active racing game. That he has taken at hild flyer in the matrimonial game must indicate that our old dare-devil is pretty sure. Here's luck to him.

The Story of Vasco De Gama

The fever of exploration was in the air from the moment that Christopher Columbus came back with his stories of new lands after discovering the West Indies in 1492.

But the new route to India was still to be found.

Vasco de Gama sailed from the Portuguese port, Lisbon, with four ships. He sailed west. As soon as he reached the Cape Verde Islands, he struck off mid-south and proceeded in waters never before ventured by the intrepid explorers of his age—an age of daring discovery.

He landed at St. Helena Bay on the coast of Africa.

When he cast anchor he had been out of sight of land for 93 days, three months! On Columbus' first voyage he had been out of sight of shore only 35 days. So you may see how bold a man de Gama was.

From St. Helena Bay he proceeded along the coast until he rounded the Cape of Good Hope, and with the aid of native guides, he sailed on to India.

It is thought that it was in the year 1498 that he reached India. He was immediately given the rank of noble by his government. Vasco de Gama had reached his goal by water.

The King of Portugal was delighted. He sent word immediately to the King of Spain that the real India, the land of spices and cities and riches, had been found by a man who sailed under the Portuguese flag. He fairly gloated in his pleasure.

De Gama's voyage had the desired effect of enriching Portugal and although there were some bitter encounters between colonists and natives, Portugal succeeded in establishing a factory in Calicut in after years.

When an explorer named Cabral tried to follow de Gama's route, his ships were blown well away from the course and quite by accident he landed in Brazil, South America. His voyage was ill-fated enough for he ran into a terrific gale on his return trip and saw four of his ships go down before his very eyes, all on board perishing in the heavy seas.

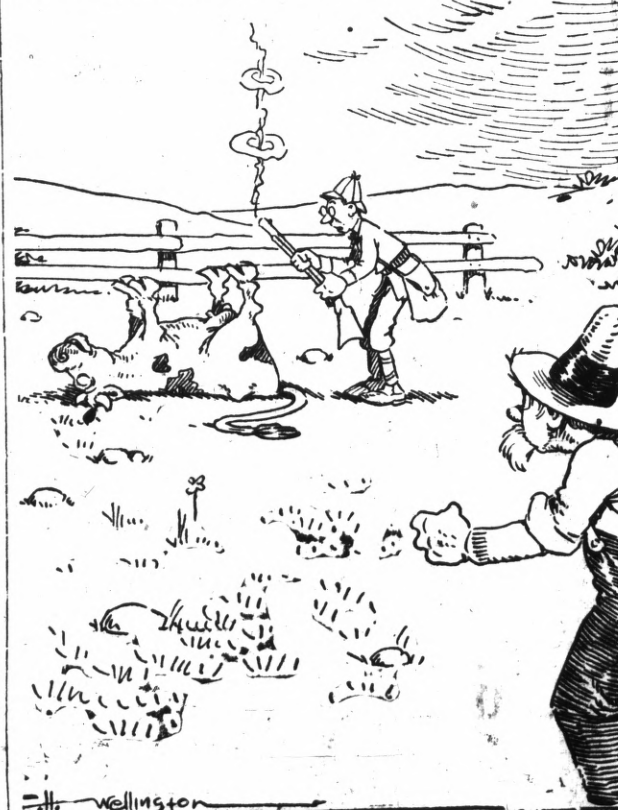

It is thought that perhaps de Gama's achievement had something to do with Columbus' fourth voyage and his grim determination to find the real India for Spain—and to find it by a western route.

Thousands of women in all parts of the United States listen to the Home Service Talks broadcast by Betty Crocker, nationally known food specialist, from the following broadcasting stations: WEEI, Boston, Mass.; WEEF, New York, N. Y.; WCAE, Pittsburgh, Pa.; WJLB, Buffalo, N. Y.; WEAU, Cleveland, Ohio; WJWL, Detroit, Mich.; WDAF, Kansas City, Mo.; WHT, Chicago, Ill.; WFI, Philadelphia, Pa.; KSD, St. Louis, Mo.; KFI, Los Angeles, Calif.; and WCCO, the Gold Medal Station, Minneapolis-Saint Paul. All of her recipes and discussions are based upon investigations and work of herself and her assistants in model kitchens.

By special arrangement the Record-Herald is now able to offer its readers this service which heretofore was given exclusively over the radio.

SINCE the latter part of September I have been having the very enjoyable experience of visiting with several thousand women of the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. I say "visiting," although I have done most of the talking, because they have written to me and we have exchanged ideas and suggestions. The members of this big class in cookery range in age from little three-year-old Mary Jane, whose mother gives her a pencil and paper and lets her listen in, too, to keep her from interrupting, to a grandmother and great-grandmother in one family.

You probably all have favorite recipes for cakes and I would like to give you mine. Here is the kitchen-tested recipe for my Devils Food Cake:

- ½ Cup Shortening
- 1½ Cups Sugar
- 2 Eggs
- 1½ Cups Flour
- 1 Teaspoon Salt
- 1 Teaspoon Soda
- 1 Cup Sweet Milk
- 1 Teaspoon Vanilla
- 2 squares or 2 ounces melted Chocolate

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add well-beaten eggs. Sift flour once before measuring. Sift flour, salt and soda together. Add to the creamed mixture alternating with the milk. Add melted chocolate and vanilla. Mix well and pour into well-greased and floured pans. Bake 40 minutes in moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit. This amount will make two round layers 7½ inches in diameter.

Some of you will think I made a mistake because this recipe calls for soda and sweet milk. You will find it all right, however, just as given. Where soda is used it brings out the rich reddish brown color that we always like in Devils Food.

Some Cake Making Hints
The nice part of it is that if you have sour milk you can use that in place of the sweet milk without changing anything else in the recipe in any way. We have found this to be true after many tests in our model kitchen. If you would have a perfect cake, you must

"Satan in Sables" with Lowell Sherman is a picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

The story opens during the revelries on the night of the Fete de la Maitresse in Paris. In his sumptuous apartment, Prince Michael Veredoff, an immensely wealthy Russian noble who has made his home in Paris since the debacle in his own country, is giving one of the wild parties for which he is renowned. Erskin, an English lord; Ninon, a fashionable demi-monde; and Armand, a man-about-town, are among the guests helping to make Michael's gay life gay. Ninon makes Erskin jealous, whereupon he punishes the whole crowd by singing.

Rendered in droling tones, feebly assisted by the orchestra, which vainly tried to follow his erratic tempo, Freddy's singing made a strange impression on his victims. Erskin pretended to be overcome by sentimentality and emotion, strong men affected to weep, and Ninon theatrically engaged in convulsive sobbing on Armand's shoulder.

Nothing daunted, Freddy commenced the second verse.

"Moi, pour ces deux mots, ces mots d'amour—"

"One moment, Freddy," interrupted Michael holding up his hand, "for some unaccountable reason the people outside seem to be objecting to your singing. Listen—"

"Hoh, hoh, good people, and who is dying up there?" a girl's clear voice floated through the window on the crest of a wave of laughter.

Michael and his guests walked to the balcony and looked out upon a band of revellers who had evidently stepped aside from the main jam and lingered to enjoy the atrocity of Freddy's vocal effort. A strange sight they presented.

"Pray let me remove your mask," urged Michael.

dressed in every conceivable costume and armed with balloons tied to sticks.

From out their midst a girl in the costume of Columbine suddenly broke into a mad dance accompanied by the handclapping of the others.

Slim and petite, with a dainty little figure well set off by her abbreviated costume, she seemed the very essence of youth and laughter as she promiscuously there in the moonlight. At the height of her dance she stopped to blow a kiss to Michael and his friends, who were watching her with genuine interest and admiration.

"Voila, we have a distinguished audience with us! Ladies and gentlemen, I beg of you to show us the poor fellow who sounded as one in the throes of death? Was it you, Michael? The girl saucily pointed to Michael.

"No, I am sorry I cannot claim the distinction. But pray continue your dance—it is entrancing."

"The cobblestones hurt my poor feet, M'sieu," the girl protested, hopping about on one foot while gingerly nursing the other.

"Then allow me to offer the floor of my humble salon," said Michael on an impulse of sheer whimsy. Turning to a servant he gave instructions to admit the detached group of revellers.

In they rushed pell mell, knocking over chairs, tossing the heavy draperies aside in wild eagerness. Led by Columbine, they marched round and round the room singing and mercilessly chastising the original guests with toy balloons. Finally they rushed to the banquet table and ravenously devoured every edible thing they could find.

Columbine was plainly the life of that little crowd; her vivacity and freshness interested Michael. A mass of coal black hair was carelessly done up high on her head and a determined little chin revealed itself from beneath her mask. Her laugh was infectious and her avoile, trim, tight little body gave her a boyish appearance a spite of her scanty and revealing white costume.

It may, perhaps be true that President Coolidge, as some of his heavyweight critics say, never learned to play. But he's a whale of a worker, if that counts for anything.—Springfield Union.

ACROSS AMERICA BY MOTOR BOAT

World's Longest Fresh-Water Cruise
Completed in an Eighteen-foot
Boat Powered by Only Two Small Outboard Motors.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS sought a water route through America to the Pacific Ocean. He failed. So, too, did Hudson, Champlain, and others. Not until the year 1925 has the American continent at its widest extent been crossed by boat, and the credit goes to a small craft—an eighteen-foot boat not much larger than one uses on an unexciting fishing expedition, and powered with two of the same popular outboard motors which putt-putt on thousands of our lakes and rivers.

The long jaunt of 5,280 miles was made by three Los Angeles men—Captain John Edwin Hoag, writer, Frank Wilton, News Reel photographer, and Val Woodbury, business man and former naval officer. With the true grit which marks the affairs of all adventurers, they flouted from the bow of their craft this slogan, "Hell, Heaven or Hoboken." The boat itself was christened the "Transcontinental," and was lowered into the Columbia River at Astoria, Oregon, for the start of its record-making trip, on May 20. On Sunday afternoon, October 4, it was docked in New York City after successfully completing the longest voyage ever completed in fresh water.

Every bit of the journey, with the exception of four hundred miles over the Continental Divide, was made on water. The trip was not without its mishaps and adventures, but these were borne without complaint from "Captain" Hoag, Wilton, Woodbury, or their dog, "Spy-Wapato," who also accompanied the expedition.

The "Transcontinental" was constructed especially for the attempt to cross the continent. In spite of the fact that a three-foot flood stage of water was encountered in the Columbia River, the boat was driven up that stream for 218 miles—on from the mouth of the river at the Pacific Ocean up to Celilo Falls, Washington. Over this portion of the journey many swift and dangerous rapids were successfully negotiated.

One of the closest "squawks" the three men confessed experiencing occurred at this time. While they were cruising at a fair speed, there was a sudden hump, and all were thrown to the bottom of the boat. When they arose, they found their craft rammed split into two parts. They had rammed a derelict log. After considerable difficulty, they managed to drift to shore and set to work at the task of repairing their battered craft.

But despite this experience, Wilton, Hoag and Woodbury did not discontinue their eastward journey until an eighteen-foot watercraft absolutely flopped further progress. At Celilo Falls the boat was pulled out of the water, loaded into a box car and transported across the Continental Divide to the head waters of the Missouri River at Fort Benton, Montana—a distance of four hundred miles. This portage could hardly have been avoided, for a motorboat could

State, but they were not through. In 114 days of motor boat travel, they had passed through fourteen states and two Canadian provinces, through rivers, great lakes and canals.

Proceeding down the St. Lawrence River, they stopped off for a while at Montreal, and embarked again for the little town of Sorel, Quebec, fifty miles further down the stream. Here they entered the little Richelieu River and steered their course up this stream into Lake Champlain. From the lake through the Champlain Canal to the Hudson River and down that waterway to New York City was then but a matter of days. It was October 4 when they arrived in the metropolis to receive an enthusiastic greeting.

The adventure of these three men and their dog through the course of a little more than eighteen weeks would fill several volumes. They cruised through every kind of weather, from near torrid in Montana to the roughest of water on the Great Lakes. Several times they were close to losing their boat and their outfit.

Again in Lake Michigan "Captain" Hoag and his friends were overtaken by a severe lake storm that turned the water into a turbulent sea. Each confessed afterward that they had little hope of ever seeing shore again when the storm broke to sweep the lake. But they made their way, partly through their own efforts, and partly the help given by the storm into the little town of Ionia, Michigan.

hardly cross the Rocky Mountains. The eastward journey was then resumed down the Missouri River for 2,880 miles without mishap, passing through or touching seven states and finally entering the Mississippi.

After a run down the Mississippi as far as St. Louis, the boat was driven up the "Father of Waters" to the mouth of the Illinois River. Proceeding up the Illinois as far as the town of Ottawa, the travelers entered the Illinois and Michigan Canal and followed that to Joliet, Illinois. From there the distance to Lake Michigan was made through the Chicago Drainage Canal. Having reached Chicago and the Great Lakes, more than half the journey was completed.

Once in Lake Michigan, the craft was taken up the west shore of the Lake to Milwaukee and then across the lake to Manitowish. The men then continued up the western shore of the lake as far as the straits. In the event, for a motorboat could made to Saint Ste. Marie and into Lake Superior above the "Saw" locks. Eastward again the course was continued through Lake Huron into Georgian Bay, thus entering Canadian waters for the first time. The voyagers brought their motor boat from Port Severn, Ontario, through the Trent Canal, a distance of 250 miles into the Bay of Quinte on Lake Ontario. This route saved them a long journey through Lake Erie, and made it possible for them to avoid Niagara Falls.

From that point the Canadian shore was followed into the St. Lawrence River. They had entered the Canadian territory on August 24 and had been there almost a month when Alagoz complained that he "must get a good cut of American coffee." So on September 21st the first travelers sat in at Oshkosh, New York, and finished their journey.

They had already accumulated the journey from the Pacific to New York.

FOREIGN TRADE REVIEW AND FUTURE PROSPECTS

BY JULIUS KLEIN

Director, United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce

The year 1925 closed with our foreign trade in a highly satisfactory situation. Unless unforeseen causes should arise drastically affecting either our own production or the purchasing power of our leading foreign markets the prospects for the coming year present together favorable.

Foremost, perhaps, among the factors which promise favor to our foreign trade for the coming year is what has already come to be known as "the spirit of Locarno," in the countries of Europe that are among our best customers.

No review of the past year would be complete without mention of the principal nations of Western and Central Europe pledged themselves to mutual guarantees of peace, stability and good will. We have reason to hope a new era has been inaugurated among the former warring nations and to believe that Europe is at last about to enter into a period offering the most beneficial opportunities for her undisturbed internal development. Restored to a reasonable sense of national stability and the opportunity for greater industrial productivity, Europe must undoubtedly find herself with an increased ability to buy from abroad and it can hardly be doubted that American trade will have its appropriate share in Europe's improved markets.

During 1925 the export trade of the United States continued its steady advance, exceeding by more than 7 per cent its value in 1924. The total value of our exports for the year is in the neighborhood of $4,900,000,000, the largest figure since 1920, and representing an increase largely due to increased volume rather than to higher prices. This is an eminently satisfactory showing when compared with that of other leading industrial countries. British exports of domestic products were slightly less than in 1924, and French exports also showed a decline. Very naturally those of Germany, in view of the reestablishment of her currency and the least partial settlement of international complications, have shown some increase—about 6 per cent. After allowing for the changing prices, British exports are only about three-fourths as great as before the war, and German exports a little more than one-half as great, while French exports, as nearly as can be ascertained, have increased slightly. Those of the United States, on the other hand, show a large increase in physical volume at least 20 per cent.

It is particularly a matter for comment that our exports of finished manufactures have again risen markedly. Almost every class of manufactured articles has been exported in greater quantity than ever before, except in the inflation years, 1919 and 1920. A truly remarkable achievement of American industry is its increase of nearly 60 per cent over 1924 in the number of automobiles exported, raising the automobile to a rank in our export trade surpassed only by cotton and mineral oils.

But our so-called favorable trade balance, that is the excess of exports over imports, has been about one-third less than last year. This is due, in large part at least, to perfectly normal and healthy conditions. When our business is active and the people prosperous, we demand more exotic foodstuffs on our dining tables and more raw materials from abroad for our factories. The year 1921, which was one of marked depression, for example, showed much smaller imports and a much larger excess of exports over imports than in the years since. The year 1925 was marked by greater prosperity than 1924. As against an increase of a little over 7 per cent in our exports, imports have increased by 17 per cent in 1925. This disparity need be lamented only because of the fact that fully half of the increase in value of imports has been due to price advances.

It should be born in mind that since pre-war years the United States has changed from being primarily a debtor country to being a great creditor country, toward which interest payments and payments on principal flow, tending to increase imports. Moreover we now have to pay relatively much to foreigners for ocean transportation on account of the development of our own shipping. Were we not constantly making large new investments in foreign countries, the change in our position in this respect might readily result in a normal excess of imports. The continuous large balance in our favor represents primarily our increasing loans and investments abroad. Our new placements of capital in foreign countries during 1925 have probably totaled more than $1,000,000,000 and bring our total foreign investments (exclusive of loans by our Government) to more than $9,000,000,000, as compared with about $2,000,000,000 before the war. These investments represent, of course, savings of the American people and additions to their wealth; they supply a future increase of national income in the form of interest and dividends from such investments, as well as a most potent stimulus to our exports.

Considering more particularly the character of the recent changes in our trade, it should be borne in mind that our exports of crude materials and of foodstuffs are dependent not so much upon the enterprise of our producers and exporters as upon changes in our crops and those abroad. To a greater extent exports of semi-manufactures, and especially of finished manufactures, reflect the degree of efficiency and enterprise of our industries and our traders although at the same time they also are affected by general economic conditions and the buying powers of our customers. An increase in exports of these classes is a favorable sign, both as to domestic and foreign conditions.

The exports of 1925 show, as compared with 1924, an increase of about 13 per cent in the value of crude materials, a slight decrease in foodstuffs, and an increase in crude materials would have been still greater, but for the decline in the price of cotton, the most important item. Owing to the marked improvement in our last two crops, our cotton exports were more than 40 per cent greater in quantity in 1925 than in 1924; but the increase in value has been around 25 per cent. The principal individual foodstuffs exports declined materially in quantity, owing to higher prices shown much less decrease in value. Exports of wheat and flour, for example, have been about one-third less in quantity than in 1924.

Particularly gratifying is the showing of our exports in most of the major classes of manufactured goods. The increase of nearly 60 per cent in the number of automobiles exported has already been mentioned, and every indication is that this remarkable advance will continue—largely because of the general improvement of world economic conditions, the lowered prices of our automobiles, the inability of most European producers to satisfy demand, and the exploitation of hitherto undeveloped markets, stimulated in several important instances by the Department of Commerce. Outstanding examples of increased purchases of American automobiles in 1925 over 1924 are: Belgium, 56 per cent; Denmark, 700 per cent; Norway, 20 per cent; Brazil, 151 per cent; and United Kingdom, 250 per cent.

THE NEW HOTEL DEL MONTE WHICH IS FAST NEARING COMPLETION

Here is a model of the new Hotel Del Monte, exactly as it will look when it throws open its doors on April 15. Work on the new building, which will replace the one destroyed by fire a year ago, is progressing at a rapid rate. Guests are being cared for as usual in the two large wings which were left intact by the fire. Clarence A. Tantau and Lewis Hobart are the architects, while the builders are Lindgren and Swinerton, Inc.

DEL MONTE, Jan. 5.—The new and greater Hotel Del Monte, successor to the structure destroyed by fire a year ago, is rapidly nearing completion on the famous Monterey Peninsula and, according to the present plans, the grand opening will be held on April 15, 1926.

The new hotel Del Monte will be one of the most beautiful hostilities in the United States, with every modern feature embodied in the building. It has been so designed that each room will receive an abundance of sunshine during practically the entire day. It will be of white cement with a heavy tile roof.

In the main building will be 96 rooms, and as there are 110 rooms in each of the two wings, in which guests are housed at present, and 50 in the nine cottages which surround the main building, the total number of rooms available will be 356 with a capacity of 600.

The building is of Spanish architecture and was designed by Clarence A. Tantau and Lewis P. Hobart. It is fire-proof throughout. The builders are Lindgren and Swinerton, and they have 250 men working day and night to rush the work to completion.

On the main floor will be a large entrance porch, while a luxurious sunporch will open onto a terrace on the south side and extend over the passage to the wings. This porch, incidentally, is on the same spot as the old one. Two sunken gardens will be seen on either side of the main building. From the hotel lobby a full view can be had of the Roman Pool. The windows in the lobby are twenty feet in height and two paintings by Francis McComas, the famous American artist, will decorate the main window. The room will be of Spanish design, with a beamed ceiling.

The main floor lounge has paved terraces on both sides and will be decorated with the finest of Grosebeck murals. The pictures depict the landing of Cabrillo on Monterey Peninsula. This room will have a coffered ceiling. The dining room, which is situated next to the main floor lounge, is 210 feet long, 49 feet wide, and from ceiling to floor will be 27 feet. It will have four decorations of tile, one of them being the fountain which is seen near the entrance. The ceiling will be of Spanish Colonial design.

The ground and main floors will be tied together by two elevators and three massive staircases. Two service elevators will service all of the rooms.

In the tower, from which a magnificent view can be had of Carmel, Pebble Beach and a wide sweep of Monterey Bay, there will be a Spanish banquet room. A staircase and two elevators will permit of access. Above the tower room will be a covered terrace.

Good references required

YOU would not like to hire anyone without a good reference.

Why not extend the same plan to the servants you buy for your home—the servants that sweep your floors, that wash and iron your clothes—that play music for you—that feed your family?

You can buy such servants—vacuum cleaners, washers and ironers, phonographs and food—with or without references. When they are advertised, they are vouched for by a responsible person—the merchant or manufacturer. You can buy them with confidence—knowing that they must live up to their references.

That's why it pays you to read the advertisements. Through advertising you learn not only what is good, but what is trustworthy.

SPORTS

BABE HORRELL IS THE LATEST FOOTBALL PRO

(By Universal Service)
By HARRY M. HAYWARD

"Babe" Horrell, center captain on the University of California football eleven of 1924 and center for the West team which triumphed over the Eastern All-Star eleven here recently, has accepted terms to play with the San Francisco All Star professional eleven, which will meet "Red" Grange and his Chicago Bears here January 24, according to an announcement made yesterday by M. S. Cowen, promoter of the local game.

Whether or not Horrell will play on the San Francisco pro-eleven, however, still remains a question, according to Cowen, who received Horrell's acceptance of terms, in a wire from the latter yesterday. Cowen stated that Horrell's business in Los Angeles may prevent his participation in the local contest.

It is understood that Horrell, in the bond business in the Southern California city, is attempting to arrange his affairs to permit his presence here for the week of practice before the game. If he is not able to do this, Cowen stated, it was improbable that the former Bruin leader will be seen in the lineup.

Cowen also gave the lie to statements that "Tut" Tmaly, California captain for this season, had been signed by either his team or the Los Angeles Tigers. He stated that Tmaly had been in his Salinas home for two days and scoffed at reports from Los Angeles which had Tmaly, Charles Erb and "Buck" Muller agreeing to terms with the southern promoter over the long-distance telephone yesterday.

Muller recently stated that while he did not blame others for accepting professional offers he was not in a position to do so himself.

It is known that Tmaly and Erb had been offered positions on the southern team while they were in Los Angeles to attend the Alabama-Washington game; but it was understood at that time that the offer was not lucrative enough to cause them to make the leap from the ranks of the "simon pure."

Cowen also said yesterday that neither Jimmy Bradshaw, Jimmy Needles or Jack Patrick had definitely accepted the contract he offered them as yet.

PULLMAN FIVE LOSES TO THE MARTINEZ VETS

The Pullman team again were defeated by the Martinez Legion team in one of the swiftest, most interesting games ever staged at the Junior high court last night. The final score was 15-14. The Richmond team showed their stuff in all quarters of the game. There is no doubt but the Richmond team did faster floor work.

Gidge Cornell was the star of the game; he was outweighted and smaller than any man on the visitors, but he took the ball down the court in fine style. Gidge was set with some hard luck. Plenty of his shots would dangle about the bucket and then roll back out.

The score was close from the start to finish; at the end of the first quarter the score stood 6-5 for the locals; at the end of the half it was 9-8 for the locals; at the end of the third quarter 12-13 for the visitors and from then on the battle went strong and fast.

The line ups: Pullman: Daley, f. 3; Kamb, f. 1; Gahberry, c. 1; Cornell, g. 4; Tamm, f. 2. Martinez: Ball, f. 4; McLaughlin, f. 3; Korte, c. 3; Rampoli, g. 3; Burnside, g. 2.

METHODS OF BILLY SUNDAY ARE ANALYZED

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Reverend "Billy" Sunday has been put under the scientific microscope of the department of systematic theology at the University of Chicago and the element of his appeal has been analyzed.

Dr. David A. Vaughan in his study today catalogued the "Sunday methods" as follows:

His appeal to the heroic, appeal to human loyalties, patriotism, laughter and song.

Since the ethical appeal is so largely a part of his message like posthypnotic suggestion, it remains in the minds of his converts.

We find certain qualities in extreme forms of religious expression. In heathen religion as well as among Christians who ascribe their peculiar actions to the influence of the holy spirit.

Sunday makes use of this age-old emotional appeal to help him win his crowd by flaunting popular prejudices against evolution, education, the church and ministers. Dr. Vaughan declared. He continued:

He calls preachers "fudge-eating mollycoddles and a bunch of stuff" and calls church members "world-loving, dancing, card-playing, whisky-guzzling, gin-fizzling, wine-sipping, novel-reading crowd."

He says he would like to stand theological professors on their heads in mud puddles. He admits that he himself "knows no more about theology than a jack-rabbit knows about ping-pong."

One might summarize the gist of Sunday's message in a terrific bombardment of sin, the picturing of a lurid hell, a beautiful heaven, a real devil, the producing of a real longing for escape from sin and its effects, and a longing for peace.

It is not difficult to start great waves of feeling in a crowd. Humor and pathos are intermingled, for one follows the other easily and together they make the crowd plastic. Applause, nods, smiles, amens, whispers, hushed breath, strained attention, ominous hush—all these produce a tremendous social pressure which reduces and makes the crowd susceptible to ideas and impulses dominated by the evangelist.

McRackens Take Game From the LaMoine Cagers

The McRackens quintet demolished the LaMoine drugsters 31 to 9 at the Junior high gymnasium last night. The Drugsters were outplayed three quarters of the game. Only in the last few minutes of the last quarter did they show a fight.

O'Brien and Gillars were the high point men for the cagers, each made 11 points. Nickle was the bucket shooter for the Drugsters with 5 points.

The line ups: McRackens: Huzefka, f. 1; O'Brien, f. 14; Gillars, c. 11; Lee, g. 6; A. McLaughlin, g. 0. LaMoine: Healey, f. 0; Nickle, f. 5; Fenning, c. 4; F. McLaughlin, g. 0; Kovack, g. 0; Moore, substitute.

SWEDENS KING PUTS APPROVAL ON RING BOUTS

(By Universal Service)

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 5.—A royal seal of approval on boxing has now been placed in Sweden through the private audience granted by King Gustav V to Harry Persson, a former stone cutter, who is the country's champion heavyweight.

Accompanied by his manager, Hjalmar Palmqvist, and dressed for the occasion in top hat and full dress, the six foot pugilist paid his respects to his Majesty at the Royal Castle a few days ago but before he met the American colored boxer, Jack Townsend, and whether inspired or not by the unwelcome honor of a private talk with the king, he knocked the Negro cold in the third round, and thereby fixed the supremacy of the white race as far as Sweden is concerned.

The fight with Townsend was Persson's last for some time in his own country, as he has been invited by Tex Rickard to come to the United States early next year and try his luck against some of the American heavyweights.

In Europe Persson has never been knocked out and only the Dutchman Piet Vander Geer beat him last spring on points. He has fought Canadians, Germans, Englishmen, Australians, Danes and Norwegians and early this fall got an easy decision over the Dutchman Harry de Best. In Sweden there is no one in his class and he even has had a hard time to find sparring partners.

In Sweden boxing is a comparatively new sport and originally Persson himself was a crack amateur football player and track athlete. He did not take up boxing until well over twenty years old, but in a short while he had scored knockouts against one opponent after another. Then foreigners were imported to meet him and later went abroad recording only victories.

A match with Luis Firpo was scheduled for him last spring but it had to be cancelled because the police regulations in Stockholm forbid boxing matches except before private clubs and the returns from such a limited audience would not meet the South American's demand for a guarantee.

Being himself a good tennis player and a hunter, King Gustav V is much interested in all kinds of sports and from the start he has followed Persson's career. At the private audience he received the former stone cutter most cordially and even addressed him with the familiar pronoun "Du" which pleased both Persson and his manager very much.

On the official reception list Persson had been put down under the title of "Boxer," the first time this occupation had been similarly recognized in Sweden. Throughout his ring career he has sustained the reputation of being a clean fighter and his private life is exemplary. He is also personally immensely popular.

Mrs. Frank W. Skinner, daughter of Judge and Mrs. H. V. Alvarado, 612 Bissell avenue, left Saturday for her home in Los Angeles, after a visit with her parents here. She was accompanied by Mrs. Alvarado, who will remain south for her health the rest of the winter.

Saving Plan Is Terminated by S. O. Officials

with the Pacific Oil company making it advisable to discontinue this plan has prompted us to make this move at the present time," Kingsbury declared yesterday when interviewed by the RECORD HERALD.

"When the agreement was made with the employees of the company it was understood that it might be terminated at any time at the pleasure of the directors of the company," he continued.

"We have found to our regret that owing to the recent consolidation, we will be unable to go on with the plan," he concluded.

More than fifteen million dollars is involved in the stock saving plan. Of this amount approximately three and a half million dollars is held by employees at the Richmond refineries, according to estimates made last night.

Under the plan employees of the company were permitted to deposit 20 per cent of their earnings with the company for the purchase of stock and the company in turn added 10 per cent from company funds. Under the plan which was put into effect in June, 1925, it would have terminated on May 15 of this year.

Although the plan will be discontinued at once the actual distribution of the stock will not be made until May 15, as originally planned by the company.

Of the 2,700 employees of the Richmond refinery it was estimated some time ago that 87 per cent were taking advantage of the stock saving plan.

Wireless Skating New British Fad

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Skating by wireless is one of the fads that developed over night during the recent freezing weather in the Lake District. Seve radio rigged up a powerful receiving set on the Taft Tarn, hooked it up with a powerful loud-speaker and to the tune of melodies snatched from the ether scores of couples skated in unison under moonlight.

A match with Luis Firpo was scheduled for him last spring but it had to be cancelled because the police regulations in Stockholm forbid boxing matches except before private clubs and the returns from such a limited audience would not meet the South American's demand for a guarantee.

Being himself a good tennis player and a hunter, King Gustav V is much interested in all kinds of sports and from the start he has followed Persson's career. EVELYN NESBIT TAKES POISON

Miss Thaw swallowed the poison in her apartment at 4 o'clock this morning. She had just concluded a dancing engagement at a local cafe last week. She celebrated the New Year with friends who gave a party on Chicago's South Side. She drank heavily, it is said, and after the party continued to drink. The story of her drinking was told by Gussie Accoe, the maid who had accompanied her here from Brooklyn several weeks ago.

According to the maid, Miss Thaw returned from the party with a broken nose.

Russell Thaw, her son, 15 years old, had been spending the holidays with his mother. He was asleep when she took the poison this morning. He could not say what prompted the act—whether his mother drank the poison during a fit of despondency or whether she believed it was a substitute for alcohol.

Gussie, the maid, said Miss Thaw shortly before 4 this morning asked her to get some gin.

"I told her," said the maid, "that I couldn't get any more until the bootlegger opened in the morning. She went into the bathroom then and remarked, 'I'll get a drink of water.'"

A moment later the maid heard her cry:

"My God, I've done it now."

"You've done what?" asked the maid.

"Killed myself—I've drunk that poison," the dancer replied, staggering.

There, all day, doctors worked over her. The broken nose and burned lips wiped out the last trace of beauty—beauty that had inspired artists when she was a model beauty that inflamed Harry Thaw and led him to slay Stanford White in Madison Square Garden years ago.

Morrow, all of Martinez; Jacob Bonsett, J. L. Harkinson, J. A. West and Mrs. Mary Shedd, all of Antioch; Andrew Bonnickson, Byron L. Grigsby, Fred A. Blume, San Pablo; A. M. Miller and Wilson Purchase Property

John A. Miller and Frank Wilson, proprietors of the service station at Tenth and Barrett, have purchased a lot 85 by 107 feet at the corner of Tenth and Roosevelt from W. O. Innis of Ojai Town, Penn. They have not announced their plans for the property.

After Dr. Brand had removed Evelyn to the hospital, Sergeant Joe Hanratty and Robert Badley, of the East Chicago avenue station, found her son alone in the apartment.

Coolly the youth asked the police for their credentials. When shown their stars, he appeared satisfied, but refused to answer questions.

SYNTHETIC RAIN SUGGESTED FOR FOREST FIRES

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 5. "Synthetic rain" the last word in the way of suggested fire fighting devices was brought to the attention of the state board of forestry today by C. S. Cerruti of San Benito county, as a means of preventing annual devastation of California resources by timber conflagration.

As a substitute for the rain clouds on which the state has depended in the past to dampen the forests and safeguard them against flames, Cerruti proposes army type bombing planes equipped with two ton water tanks to drop an artificial deluge on the park timber land. State foresters have said the "synthetic rain" suggestion will be given consideration, adding that National Air Service authorities are already experimenting with chemicals designed for use in fire prevention.
